New York, Feb. 7.—Herman Rosenthal's one-time partner in gambling picked up the broken threads of Rosenthal's story today and told the aldermanic committee investigating graft a tale of money paid for police protection eclipsing that of Jack Rose, Charles Becker's collector, For 17 years James Purcell said he had paid for the privilege of running a gambling house, making a handbook or conducting a pool room. In all he gave the police more than $55,000, he said, during this period.

Charles Becker, now in the death Charles Becker, now in the death house at Sing Sing for the murder of Rosenthal, got 375 from him for "fixing" the evidence against him and five others taken in a raid Becker made on his gambling house, Purcell declared, secker was their head of the "strong arm" squad for the suppression of gambling.

Police Have Tipped Him Off. "I have paid money to every squad that was ever detailed by headquarters to suppress gambling, except one," Purcell testified. "They all took it, except Costigan. Costigan was on the level." Costigan was referred to during the first investigation of the Rosenthal case as the "honest policeman." Paid $120 a Week for Five Weeks.

"I got permission from Mike Cruise, a Tammany leader, to open a gambling house in Thirty-third street," Purcell said. "Cruise wanted $50 a week for himself, the same for Captain Cray, and $10 apiece to the two men who came to collect the money each week. So for a while I paid them $120 a week."

"How long did you pay this money?"

"For five weeks. Then a friend of mine called up on the telephone and said Murphy had ordered my place dosed. Murphy's word was good enough for me. I closed up at once."

company is made the subject, one by Mr. Wilson of Bridgeport embodying his ideas of a plan to find out the relation of the corporation to the state which gave it a charter.

Wants Inside Information Mr. Wilson provides only for a house investigation. He deciared that while the New Haven road is a child of Connecticut the state has no knowledge of its inner workings while sister states like Massachusetts and New Hampshire have already taken to be a decided. shire have already taken steps to find out something about its internal construction as a corporation, its methods of financing, whether it pays its just taxes and whether or not it is over-capitalized. Mr. Wilson in moving to table his bill said that there would be little or no delay in the silver the little. little or no delay in filing the bill of particulars.

Wants Congress to Take Over Railroad The bill of Representative Barcisy asking that congress be memorialized to take over the New Haven road, was sent to the federal relations committee which will have quite a number of subjects to consider, which is not always the case. Many of the railroad bills came from Senator Quinn of the Tenth district, who probably is closer to railroad men in the state than any other member of either branch as in his district live many hundreds of employes of the company. The bill of Representative Barclay To Send National Guard to Gettysburg One appropriation bill put in called for a $50,000 appropriation to send the national guard to the Gettysburg anniversary celebration on the battlefield next July, and in being given committee reference it was bundled up with many other appropriation bills relating to the militia including one for $750,000 for a new armory at New Haven.

Cadwell Still Under Examination. The highway commissionership still ontinued to loom large as the committee on executive nominations, al-though sitting late yesterday took up the threads again this afternoon, with the threads again this afternoon, with a stenographer present, and the members were willing to sit on Sunday in order to get ready for Tuesday's executive session of the senate when the question of confirmation will come up. Mr. Cadweil has been the only witness, and at present he is being examined regarding contracts for sewer work in New Britain.

Senator Hurley Keeping Mum. Senator Hurley Keeping Mum.

Senator Hurley still meets with smiling face any questions as to possible developments in his charges that he was offered a "three finger" bribe for his vote on the highway commissionership. When asked if the home of the "high city official" who offered the inducement was in Meriden or Bridgeport, he said that he would tell the committee but no one else.

The senate in executive session confirmed Bank Commissioner Holt as an appointee of the governor to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Noble, and the three names of state priston directors sent in, all reau-
